PREPARATION AND PRESENTATION OF WINE

Rosé wine DOMAINE LES GRES is originated in the vineyard of 15ha located in the foothills of the Maures at the entrance of the Collobrières Village in the department of Var. The soil throughout the surrounding area rests mainly upon granite. The harvest takes place at maturity, produced 70% manually and at 30% by machine, in the early morning, to preserve grapes from the heat of the day and prevent the excessive oxidation of the berries. Such rosé wines are prepared by pedicle cold maceration, raked, yeasted and fermented at controlled temperatures around 16°C. The wine is then withdrawn, clarified and stored in full tanks. The Domaine Les Grès vineyard is a part of AOP Côtes de Provence area, the largest Provence appellation. Located in so-called Permian depression, the vineyard Les Grès enjoys a very favorable microclimate conducive to the production of delightful rosé wines. The wines appellation Côtes de Provence wines are usually regarded as fresh and powerful at the same time.
